The Roseland Centre

A beautifully restored residential centre in the heart of St Just-in-Roseland
Cornwall
supporting outdoor learning, adventure, wellbeing, arts, culture and community connection

Safe. Inspiring. Sustainable

About the centre

Originally a Victorian Methodist school, for many years it was successfully run as the Cornwall Outdoors Roseland Activity and Education Centre, well known as the place where schools and organisations such as the Royal Yachting Association (RYA), came to have safe, enjoyable, fun whilst learning to kayak, canoe, and sail, as well as being challenged by team building activities and orienteering in our beautiful countryside.

The Roseland Centre is now a community-led residential centre located on Cornwall's stunning Roseland Peninsula. The building has been lovingly restored to create a welcoming and inclusive environment for learning, wellbeing, sustainability and community engagement, offering children and young adults activities focusing on outdoor learning, sustainability and water-based activities, as well as CPPD for teachers and educators provided by local outdoor learning and activity specialists.

Situated a short walk from St Just in Roseland creek and iconic church and gardens, the venue provides an ideal base for nature-based experiences and exploration of the unique natural environment and rich heritage of the River Fal Estuary and the wider Roseland Peninsula Area of Outstanding Natural Beauty.

Our aim is to create opportunities that promote confidence, resilience, wellbeing, sustainability, and connection. Serving as a focal point for the Roseland Peninsula, the centre strengthens community ties through shared environmental goals. It supports local economies by partnering with regional artisans, educators, and conservation projects, helping to sustain the area's natural and cultural heritage.

Your gateway to nature's playground!
